

April 28 - 30, 2022
Loews Miami Beach Hotel

Speaker Biography

Anthony Miniaci, MD

Dr. Miniaci is an orthopaedic surgeon formerly from Canada where he trained at the University of Western Ontario in London, Ontario and did subsequent fellowship training in Bern Switzerland, Los Angeles at KJOC and University of Calgary where he developed his interests in sports medicine, shoulder and knee reconstruction and cartilage resurfacing with a special interest in early treatments for arthritis in young active individuals. He returned to positions at both University of Western Ontario and subsequently to the University of Toronto, where he was Professor of Surgery and in charge of Sports Medicine. He was recruited to become the Director of Sports Medicine at the Cleveland Clinic in 2003 and is currently a staff physician within Cleveland Clinic's Center for Sports Health and Professor at Case University and Cleveland Clinic Lerner College of Medicine. He has developed a number of innovative operative procedures, holds numerous patents and treats patients from around the world.

Dr. Miniaci has also belonged or served on numerous Committees of the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine; American Shoulder and Elbow Society; Arthroscopy Association of North America; International Society of Arthroscopy, Knee Surgery and Orthopaedic Sports Medicine; and the Canadian Orthopaedic Association. He is currently the Chairman of the American Shoulder and Elbow Surgeons Foundation.

Dr. Miniaci has served numerous roles in the world of sports and has been Head Team Physician for the London Tigers Baseball Club, Orthopaedic Consultant to the Toronto Blue Jays, consultant to the National Hockey League Players Association and served as the Head Team Physician for the Cleveland Browns Football Club.